ORDINANCE FOR WHITE WAY BEFORE COUNCIL

Resolution Offered to Provide Additional School Facilities

$15,000 GAS PLANT LOAN

To Improve Sidewalks Leading to High School—Council Invited to Virginia Historial Pageant

The first step toward securing for the city the proposed white way on King street was taken at a meeting of city council last night when an ordinance was introduced authorizing the mayor to enter into a contract with the Alexandria County Lighting Company to furnish light the proposed white way and this was referred to the joint committee on light, finance and streets.

The second paper introduced in connection with the proposition authorizes the Chesapeake and Potomac, Western and Washington Virginia Railway to replace wires on poles of the Alexandria County Lighting Company on King street between Fairfax and Patrick streets and this was referred to the joint committee on light and streets.

In the board of alderman Robert F. Green introduced a resolution providing that the city council school board procure additional space and additional teachers to take care of all of the pupils who desire to attend the public schools in order that they attend a full day's session of the schools and not be hampered as they now are by attending but part of the time. This was referred to the committee on schools and finance and common council concurred in their action.

Councilman McCaffrey suggested that they use auditorium of the school sometimes used for dancing be used temporarily for school purposes and he was advised by President Burke to make this suggestion to the city school board.

A communication was received from the Virginia Historical Pageant Association inviting city council to take part in the affair to be given next May in Richmond, Va., and it was received. It was set forth that Miss H. N. Cummings is the local representative.

Resolution authorizing the city to make a loan of $15,000 to pay indebtness of the city gas plant for loans and improvements in 1920 and 1921 and the proceeds of such notes to be credited to the gas fund and paid back at the rate of $1,000 per month. The entire indebtness with interest Councilman Baggett explained in round figures will be nearly $90,000 and he added that the plant is now on a paying basis as a result of the instalation of the new gas holder. This was referred to the finance and light committee.

An ordinance repealing an ordinance authorizing the finance committee to issue to the commissioners of the sinking fund the obligations of the city in the form of interest bearing certificates in lieu of coupon bonds of the issue of 1908 was adopted. President Burke explained this would result in the city having about $2,700 more to spend each year.

The sum of $2,000 was appropriated for a twenty-seven foot macadam roadway on Pitt street between Prince and Duke streets. Deed from L. Morgan Johnson granting the city a quit claim deed to certain streets in section 5, Rosemont, was received and deed ordered to be placed on recrod.

An ordinance providing for the improvement with granolithic sidewalks and granite curbing certain parts of King street near Harvard street, North West street, Payne and Cameron streets, leading to the Alexandria High School building, the property owners benefitted to pay their proportion of the cost was adopted. It was explained that the property owners already had been interviewed and agreed to pay their proportion of the cost.

A report submitted by Councilman McCaffrey regarding the pistols purchased recently for the members of the police force showed that the cost of pistols holsters, etc., was $470.70 and the dealer allowed $125 for the old pistols making the net cost $345.70. The report was accepted.

Attention was directed to the bad condition of the city hall property by Councilman Ruben and there was a general discussion. Councilman Ticer served notice that shortly he would present plans for the general improvement of this building before the old city council goes out and the new form of city government comes in September 1.

Other matters disposed of: Bill of Graham and Ogden for $1,085.10 for worken's compensation insurance act ordered paid; G. R. Smith granted permission to erect buildings in rear of 119-121 South Henry street; petition of W. M. Penn asking that Washington Terrace road, George Washington Park, be improved, was referred to committee on streets and finance, petition of Citizens' Welfare Association for improvements to streets leading to the Parker-Gray School for colored children referred to joint committee on streets and finance; petition of H. Herfurth, Jr., for sewer to connect with three houses he is building on North Columbus street and appropriating $90 for the work, adopted.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—President Harding's conference with the newspaper men yesterday brought forth a large number of queries with reference to the attitude of the United States in regard to the forthcoming economic conference at Genoa. To all such questions the President declared he would make known the position of this government within the next few days.

"Christopher Columbus should arise from his tomb and plume himself," said the President, meaning no doubt that as Christopher had discovered America so America is now discovering the European countries in so far as future policies are concerned.

President Harding it is understood, will shortly transmit to Congress a message outlining his views with respect to a ship subsidy in order to encourage the upbuilding and operation of a United States merchant marine. It is expected that this message will be delivered to a joint session of the two houses of Congress within the next week or ten days.

Chairman Lasker and other members of the Shipping Board called at the White House yesterday and laid before the President the results of their investigation into the different plans for a ship subsidy. It is understood that the plan as submitted to the President does not contemplate the carrying into effect of section 34 of the Jones act which would provide for the abrogation of certain sections of commercial treaties now in effect between the maritime nations and this government in order that American importers would be given preferential customs rates in return for using American ships to carry on their trade.

It is quite probable that a certain percentage of our customs receipts will be set aside in order to pay for the subsidy that is to be turned over to the cause of an American merchant marine.

The President will have a statement to make on the subject of the Genoa economic conference in a day or two, it was stated today at the White House. Although the nature of the statement was not forecast, the general understanding is that the President will announce that this government cannot see its way clear to taking part in the conference while the nations of Europe are maintaining huge armies which eat up their resources and prevent their budgets from balancing.

The President was asked whether the maintenance of large armies by European nations prejudices the decision of the United States on the Genoa conference. He replied that he would answer that question when he gave out the reply of this government to attend the forthcoming economic conference.

The administration will oppose any further reduction in the military establishment of the government beyond the 150,000 as at present fixed. It is the opinion of President Harding and his Cabinet advisers that despite the steps toward naval disarmament to be taken by the Arms Conference, the age of miracles is not yet at hand. In this connection it was pointed out today that no sane government would think of reducing its standing army below that figure which would provide for its national security. Emphasis was laid upon the fact that European nations are still maintaining large standing armies and with the present state of unrest in many sections of the world it would be foolhardy for the United States to give up its army at this time and thus lay itself open to possible attack from a foreign foe.

The Director General of Railroads announced today that he had sold to the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York, $5,496,000 worth of railroad equipment trust certificates now held by the government and formerly the property of the Southern Railway.

This sale comprises two-thirds of all maturities of these equipment issues. The government will hold the balance of one-third of all maturities stamped as subordinated, in accordance with the agreement recently announced.

FAST WORK IS DONE ON FAR EAST PROBLEMS

Siberian Question Disposed of—Hope Seen For Other Settlements

ARMY CUT OPPOSED

President Does Not Want Country's Defenses too Seriously Impaired by Economy Policy.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The Far Eastern Committee moved rapidly today toward the end of the agenda, disposing of the Siberian question and the question of mandated islands in the Pacific and approaching close to disposition of the question of Far Eastern electrical communications. That leaves, as the main business of the committee, action on a few Chinese hangovers including a British proposal today to stop shipment of arms to China.

While this committee was burrying to the end of its work reports spread through Washington that the Shantung settlement, so frequently predicted and so long delayed, was imminent, and the reports were given a certain authenticity by the spokesman of the American delegation, who said that though there was only a bare chance of settlement during the day, the differences now are so narrow that agreement may be expected at any time.

President Harding threw a little spice into Conference talk by letting it be known during the day that he is opposed to any further drastic cut in the size of the American Army. It was reduced last year from 220,000 to 150,000. Mr. Harding does not object to some slight decrease, but he is opposed to another heavy cut. His position is regarded as an indorsement of that of General Pershing, who warned Congress a few days ago against being carried away by "pacifist sentiment."

The situation in Far Eastern Affairs in general and in Shantung, plus belief that the Pacific fortifications matter may be adjusted at any moment, if, indeed, there is not already an understanding among the delegates, gave fresh force to the thought that all of the remaining business of the Conference is being brought to a conclusion simultaneously.

Measured confirmation was found in intimations from American delegates that one plenary session, to act upon treaties embodying the various agreements may be sufficient to conclude the business of the Conference. It was suggested by one of the principal American delegates that if everything could be handled in one meeting, by waiting two or three days, there was no reason why it should not be done. This makes possible a general clean-up plenary session in 10 days or two weeks, allowing time to put the treaty drafts into acceptable form.

The action on Siberia consisted of adoption of a resolution putting into the record the statement made yesterday by Baron Shideharra disclaiming for Japan any intention to hold Russian territory in Eastern Siberia and Sakhalin, which her troops now occupy, and a statement made today by Secretary Hughes, reiterating the American opposition to the presence of the Japanese troops. The Americans regard this as clinching the Japanese promise to get out of Russian territory.

Defends Alexandria

Fairfax Herald Makes Editorial Comment on Alleged Divorce Evil

The Fairfax Herald has the following to say editorially about the alleged divorce evil in Alexandria:

In an effort to attract attention to itself a sensational Washington paper is attacking the City of Alexandria and Judge Robinson Moncure, of the Alexandria Corporation Court on the subject of the number of divorces granted in Alexandria in the past year and on the ease with which divorces can be obtained there. The paper charges that the bar association of Alexandria has protested against the reappointment of Judge Moncure to succeed himself, when the fact is the bar has practically unanimously endorsed Judge Moncure for re-appointment.

The attack is a vicious one, and without foundation, as Judge Moncure has to follow the law as laid down in the code of Virginia, for the granting of divorces. The Herald cannot but asknowledge that the Virginia divorce laws are entirely too lax, and the legislature, now in session, should amend them so as to make divorces impossible in Virginia, except for the gravest of causes, or better still make divorces impossible in the State.

Alexandria, from its proximity to Washington, is the divorce dumping grounds of that city, and the sensational sheet that is attacking the good name of our sister city would do well to look at home for the underlying causes for the divorces asked for in Alexandria.

THREE IN LEAD FOR THRONE

Patriarch of Venice Was Named by Pope Benedict as Successor

Speculation Now Centers Around Cardinals Maffi, La Fontaine and Ratti.

Rome, Jan. 25.—Speculation on the successor of Pope Benedict now centers around three cardinals—Maffi, La Fontaine and Ratti. The name of Cardinal La Fontaine, patriarch of Venice, has come into prominence through the statement of Benedict's private chamberlain Cavalliere Fagaini, that the late Pope repeatedly expressed the hope that La Fontaine would become the next Pontiff.

Fagaini declared in an interview that while Benedict was undergoing his last illness the Pope designated the patriarch of Venice as his successor.

It is conceded, however that the wishes of Cardinal Merry Del Val and Cardinal Gasparri probably will control the majority sentiment in the Sacred College. It is of interest to note that the Sacred College now consist of eight cardinals created when Leo was Pope, twenty-five when Pius X was Pope and Merry Del Val was his secretary of state, and twenty-eight appointed by Benedict XV when Gasparri was secretary of state.

Accordingly the attitude of these two cardinals may be determining factors in the conclave.

Immediately the attitude that the Italian government is supporting, or will support, any one candidate for the papcy were tmade in the press Tuesday, following earlier hints that the government favored the candidacy of Cardinal Maffi, who is known as very friendly to the royal family and a consistent disciple of the policies of Benedict XV.

Reports that Premier Bonomi had sent out a secret circular supporting Cardinal Maffi drew indignant denials from the Popolo Romano, which insisted that the government would maintain an absolutely neutral attitude. In accordance with this principle of neutrality the government has postponed the opening of parlimanet, which had been scheduled for the same date as the beginning of the Sacred College conclave—February 2.

Nearly 500,000 people, it is estimated, passed by the body of the late Pope Tuesday as it lay on the magnificent catafalque in St. Peter's. A requiem mass was sung at 9 o'clock in the morning at the close of which four cardinals in black vestments passed around the body with the censers.

A repetition of this ceremony will occur every day for nine days, when the eulogy will be delivered in Latin by a priest previously chosen for this office.

Following a consultation of physicians, it was decided to conduct the actual burial services for the Pope on Thursday evening.

The question of Benedict's successor has provoked an intense debate among Italian newspapers, which are particularly occupied in discussing the part to be played in the conclave by the foreign cardinals. It is feared by some newspapers that the conclave will take on the atmosphere of an allied council in which the interests of the belligerent nations will be discussed, resulting in an allied and pro-German alignment, which might hopelessly divide the conclave and thus delay the election.

One section of the press openly declares that it is simply natural that each government should ask its cardinals to support its national policy.

Membership in the sacred college has now been reduced to sixty through the death of Cardinal Sancos of Toledo, and the inability of Cardinals Priesco of Naples, Misterlango of Florence, Mindezbello of Lisbon, and Arcoverde of Brazil, to attend either because of illness or advanced age.

200 ATTEND BARACA BIBLE CLASS BANQUET

Representative B. G. Lowery of Mississippi Delivers Address

MUSICAL PROGRAM

Thank All Who Helped to Make Affair a Success—Officers of Class and Executive Committee Given

Congressman B. G. Lowery, of Mississippi was the principal speaker before the two hundred members and friends of the J. R. N. Curtin Memorial Baraca Class, of the First Baptist Church, who met last night in the Westminster Building to celebrate the seventh anniversary of that class.

After assemblying in the Sunday School room, those attending were conducted to the dining room where the feast was spread. Lined up before the tables and standing, a silent toast was observed in memory of the deceased members of the class. The invocation was then pronounced by the Rev. Dr. E. B. Jackson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and the feast began.

The banquet—a sumptious one—was arranged under the supervision of G. Raymond Gaines, and served by the ladies of the church. The menu was as follows; fruit, stuffed olives, celery, wafers, roast turkey, cold ham, fried oysters, cranberry sauce, mixed pickles cold slaw, reception rolls, potato salad, saltines, orange ice, mixed cakes, coffee and after-dinner-mints.

Immediately following the supper the program was carried out in the following order: violin solo, Alvin Friedlander; piano-violin-saxophone trio, Messrs. Wells, Friedlander and Williamson; welcome address and introduction of Congressman B. G. Lowery, of Mississippi, by the president of the class and toastmaster I. S. Carpenter; Address, Congressman B. G. Lowery; piano duet, Mrs. Linwood Nalls and Miss Ruby Bowman; humorous recitation, Mrs. H. C. The benediction was then pronounced by the teacher of the class, Norman L. Williamson.

Congressman Lowery said i nthe beginning of his address that he had been asked to mix a bit of philosophy, a bit of humor and a bit of religion into his speech. He explained that this was no such hard matter as it might seem, and that the requirement of it was only to have been acquainted with the southern negro, for he says, they mix these things, unconsciously, in just the right proportions.

His address throughout was of a humorous nature. He cited incidents with the southern negroes which were at the same time witty, philosophical and full of truth. His mastery of the dialect was almost perfect.

One of his stories, which illustrated the way in which the negro may get things a bit mixed up, but at the same time do much good, that particularly struck the audience as funny, was an old negro preacher in a revival meeting in one of the southern towns was talking along in a "Billy Sunday" kind of a fashion, telling truths in a way in which they will be remembered. He was scoring them for their wrong doings and said, "I tells you'll dat you is all gwine to de bad. Purty soon you'll be wos'n old Jessubell—you know she tried to kill de Lo'ds profit. Well, one day she was a-sottin' in de forf sto'y winder and up de street comes old Jehu drivin fuisly, and he sees hur and he says, sez, he, 'Is dat Jessubell? and dey sez, 'It am.' INSURGENCY IS THREATENED AT FARM MEETING

Agricultural Department is Charged With Packing The Conference

BLOC MEN DEFIANT

Second Day's Session Is Marked by Mutterings And Indecision on Part of Conferees

Washington Jan. 25.—At the close of the second day of its sessions the National Agricultural Conference seemed dangerously near discord and ineffectiveness. It revealed an under current of pessimism and cross purposes, with an insurgent element charging that the gathering is "packed" by the Department of Agriculture and that few "dirt farmers" are represented.

There was no doubt that practically every man at the conference called by the Administration wants it to succeed for sake of country, industry and self—but it was just as plain that harmony and success are yet to be achieved.

Here were the headline developments today and most of them were disturbing:

Following President Harding's in direct slap at the Senate "agricultural bloc" at the opening session yesterday, a conference speaker today declared that "we have a bloc in the Senate, intend to have one in every State Legislature and in every Parliament of the world and to obtain for agriculture its rights." He was liberally applauded.

The so called radical element in the conference endeavored to force the appointment of a committee on resolutions, with general supervisory powers over all committees and resolutions. This was checked by a move from the chair, occupied at the time by Representative Anderson of Minnesota. Following defeat of this move J. S. Wanamaker, of South Carolina, president of the American Cotton Association, charged in a statement that the conference was "packed" and was "a camouflage affair."

Another farm leader of national reputation, who declined to be quoted until he openly takes the warpath, said privately:

"The devil is going to break loose here in a few hours unless there is a change. Everything seems cut and dried. I don't believe there are three dozen real farmers, dirt farmers in the whole outfit. Watch for something to pop."

There was no indication of support of the conference by the "agricultural bloc" in Congress. That this "bloc" is suspicious of the Administration's move in calling the farm gathering—fearing that it is a political move to check the growing power of the "bloc" in Congress—is generally known. The conference platform today was minus leaders of this agrarian group on Capitol Hill: they are paying little or no attention to the meeting.

The conference still buzzed today in approbation of the remarks yesterday of William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Bryan, although not a delegate, was called to the platform and there assailed the Wall street "bloc" and praised the "farmers' bloc." He seems to have struck the keynote of this convention.

Outside of the oratory today and the discussions, academic or direct, the second day of the conference brought mutterings and indecision rather than concrete results. The committees got down to organization and preliminary work and will begin to report Thursday. However, the Wanamaker move, which followed a conference of a dozen or so insurgents this morning was a challenge to the committee organization of the conference.

Mr. Wanamker told the conference that he had never heard of a gathering of this size without a committee on resolutions. He moved that such be named, each State delegation to name its own representative thereon. The existing committees, it is charged, are mainly the creatures of the Department of Agriculture and the Administration. There were a half dozen seconds to the Wanamaker motion.

However Chairman Anderson tersely informed the conference that he thought the existing committees were sufficient in number to take jurisdiction over any subject presented to the conference and he saw no use of a resolutions committee. Chairman Anderson agreed, neverthe less, to put the question of "consideration" of the Wanamker motion. The "noes" had it by a loud majority and the Wanamaker insurgent move was squelched. This merely added to the discontent of the so-called "dirt-farmer" element, which believed that the program has been mapped out in advance.

Mrs. Samuel Bendheim and Mrs. Louis Bendheim, of Atlantic City, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kauffman, at their home in King street.

KEEP UNIVERSITY INTACT

The Gazette has at various intervals strongly protested against the dismemberment of the University of Virginia by the removal of the Medical School to Richmond. Many of the loyal Alumni of the University have entered a vigorous protest against this spoliation of an institution that has added so much to the fame of the Commonwealth, and whose own distinction is world-wide. That this severance from the University of one of its most important branches will amount to spoliation there can be not the slightest doubt. The question to be considered is, are the gains and advantages to be obtained by this divorce such that they outweigh the loss to be sustained by the University. For our own part we consider this latter to be irreparable. The legislation that votes to cripple the State's noblest institution will be forever damned in the eyes of the people. Volumes have been written during the past few months on both sides. But we think that the University proponents have far and away the best of the argument.

There is something besides merely material consideration in this matter, even were that preponderant in the controversy, which we emphatically deny. There is a sentiment beyond and above, which belongs not only to tradition and history, but which is indissolubly bound up with the future. This it is, which outweighs all the paltry considerations brought to bear by the partisans of Richmond. Virginia has one institution, venerable in origin, of the proudest antecedents, with an unbroken record of great achievements, and with a roster of alumni that numbers many of the greatest names in American history. Let the present legislature ponder well before it commits itself to an act so infamous as to deprive the University of Virginia of one of its main branches, thus destroying its prestige and forever laming its future. For to move its medical department to another city is to decree an absolute divorce from the University itself. No sophistry can make it otherwise, no ingenuity of argument successfully confute it.

The General Assembly of Virginia is the legal guardian of the commonwealth's University. We do not believe it will ever betray the sacred trust thus imposed!

JEWISH RELIEF

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 21.—State Chairman Moe Levy, returning from New York where he attended the dinner at the Hotel Astor when $6,000,000 was assured the national relief committee for Jewish sufferers in Eastern Europe, immediately went to Suffolk to open the campaign there. The State Chairman was accompanied by Rev. Dr. L. D. Mendoza, of Norfolk, who made the address of the evening. It was a most eloquent appeal and at its close Dr. Mendoza was congratulated, notably by the clergymen present, for every pulpit in the city was representd. The ministers gave up their weekly prayer meeting that their congregations might hear the gifted orator from Norfolk. The meeting was held in the Christian Church, which was packed to the doors. Chairman Hargrove, assisted by Vice Chairman Motzno, had arranged a short program with singing and speaking, but the address of Dr. Mendoza was the event of the evening.

State Chairman Levy is now busily at work for the campaign in Norfolk. He expects that city to raise more than its quota. Touching upon the matter, he said

"It only requires the conditions that exist abroad to be brought home close to the people to have them realize what suffering and mortal agony is undergone by the unhappy ones who survive over there, to have the good people here use very effort to aid them. We who do not even know what it is to go hungry should have heard the testimony of one of the speakers at our New York meeting who has just returned from abroad. He had been well fed, he said, having horse flesh at least once a month and when that failed they had rat flesh. Think of that! They were well fed when they could get rat flesh! As Dr. Mendoza says, the meanest cur that roams the city streets homeless is better off than the people in the stricken districts of Europe. We can only be made to understand that fact—if that idea can only be brought home to us all—we need have no fear about raising the $200,000 state quota in Virginia. It is because we do not realize the suffering over there that we are indifferent."

Petersburg—The twenty-ninth annual convention of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Southern Virginia Diocese, an organization of the Episcopal Church, started in St. Paul's Church here today at noon. More than 100 delegates were present at the opening session, with a number of others arriving last night.

WITH THE WISHING FAIRY by CORINNE

Pimzie Brings a Parrot Back to the End-of-the-Earth.

"YOU have a visitor, Stella, dear," the Brownie Snookums said to the End-of-the-Earth Wishing Fairy, "who is waiting near the Get Little Pool to see you."

Just at this moment Pimzie pranced up. "I was looking for you," he said to Stella, "to tell you that the visitor Snookums is speaking of is a Parrot whom I brought here. He and I made friends with one another in a jungle. I saw him there when I was away on one of my wandering trips around the world where Humans live, and after I had told him all about you and how you can always make wishes come true he insisted on coming home with me. It seems that he has a wish to tell you."

Stella had been resting in her lily house and Snookums had had to ring the little golden bell so that the lily petals should open and allow her to step out.

In most lilies the golden bell is called the pistil, but in this case it is used as the front door bell of the Fairy's dainty home.

"Very well," and Stella smiled at her two Brownies. "I'll take my wand and follow you."

"When they reached the Parrot he was so impatient that he was flapping his wings and waddling back and forth, but the minute he saw the Wishing Fairy he calmed down and flew straight to her.

"You know," he said, "I really have two wishes I"——

"And what are they?"

"My first wish is merely that you should tell me why you are named Stella, the other wish is not so easily granted; in fact, I should say that it is a very difficult one to make come true. It's this. All my life I have wanted ever so much to be able to imitate sounds and words—I mean the words that Humans talk with. I don't mean our Fairy and animal language that we are now speaking. Can you do this for me?"

"Gladly," was the answer. "I am called Stella because it means star. Every one, just as you have, comes to me with their wishes, hoping that I will grant them; so that in a way I am their star of hope. That is the reason I wear a star on my forehead and have another one at the end of my magic wand. These two little stars fell because they were too tiny to remain in the sky. I saw them as they fell and caught them, for they were just what I wanted. I love my two wee stars from Heaven, for they help me grant wishes, and I depend on them very much. As for your second wish," the Fairy added, as she began waving the wand over the Parrot's head, "from now on you will be able to say words if you want to—the words Humans use. Look at your tongue."

Now, as every one knows, it is an extremely hard thing to do—to look at one's own tongue. Try it. Mr. Parrot, however, finally managed it, and he was a very astonished bird to find that the end of it had become rounded and thickened.

"I suppose," he said thoughtfully, "that is what will make it possible for me to talk. I can hardly wait to return to the World of Humans and try copying them when they speak. Won't they be surprised!"

And ever since this time Parrots have been able to speak very distinctly, and no one has ever understood why or how they have done it.

• • • • • • • •

In their wild state Parrots live in thick forests, where they build their nests in hollow trees. They are very quarrelsome among themselves, keeping up a constant chatter. Though they are awkward on their feet, they can climb with great rapidity, using both their claws and bill to do so.

Stella Tells Her Brownies About Scorpions.

"HAVE you ever seen a Scorpion? It is only a tiny creature, but a very dangerous one, for, though little, its sting can kill small animals and seriously hurt people."

The four Brownies were so interested that they crowded around their Wishing Fairy to listen.

"I once told you," she continued, "that all insects have six legs, while spiders have eight—four on each side; but the Scorpion has eight, and is a relation of the Spider, though it looks like a small dark Lobster. It has a long, thin body, the six joints of which are well protected by its shell-like covering. The last joint ends in a pair of sharp claw shaped fangs and the Scorpion's poison passages run down to the very tip end of these, so that at the same time that it stings it poisons, and this poison is a horrible oily liquid."

"What do Scorpions eat?" asked Lorykins.

"They feed on other insects," Stella answered with a smile, for almost the one and only question this greedy little Brownie ever asks is regarding food, though he is equally interested in sleep. Lorykins has never quite decided which he enjoys the most—sleeping or eating.

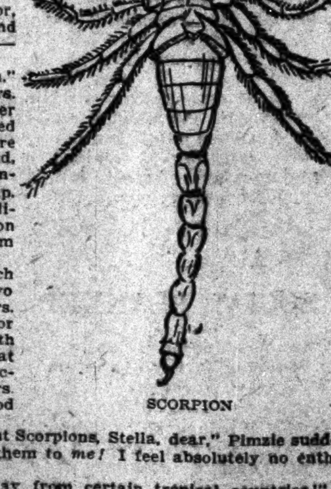
"Scorpions," the Fairy continued, "hold their unfortunate victim in a strong grasp, while they dart their poison fangs forward so that they thus are able to sting the captured insect to death; this done, they slowly and deliberately suck all its blood."

"Ugh!" exclaimed the tender hearted Kinkajou, with a shudder. "How disgusting!"

"While running," Stella said; "and a Scorpion can run very, very fast; it never drags its tail, but always carries it curved high and forward. You see, in this way," she added, "it is always prepared to strike with it to the right or left, or, for that matter, in any direction and it strikes on the least provocation—whether it is in danger or not.

"I must not forget to tell you," the Fairy said, "that little Mrs. Scorpion is much larger than her husband. She is also a very devoted mother, which, as you know, is rare in both the insect and Spider world, for young insects and Spiders generally have to bring themselves up. Mrs. Scorpion, however, pays undivided attention to her babies as soon as they are born, and carries them around with her for quite a while.

"Mrs. Earwig and Mrs. Birch Tree Maternal Bug are the only two insects who mother their young. Mrs. Maternal Bug covers her eggs for three weeks; for it takes that length of time for them to hatch. After that the baby bugs run to her for protection until they are quite grown. Mrs. Scorpion is also an exceedingly good mother."



SCORPION

"You can't tell us anything about Scorpions, Stella, dear," Pimzie suddenly cried, "that could possibly endear them to me! I feel absolutely no enthusiasm for them!"

"Then you had better stay away from certain tropical countries!" the Fairy laughingly rejoined. "You, who are always wandering away from the End-of-the-Earth in search of adventures."

"Guess you're right!" replied Pimzie. "A discussion with a Scorpion is the last thing in the world I want."

"In the lands that are infested with them," Stella continued, "people often have to place a saucer of kerosene under each bedleg, as Scorpions hate kerosene and it prevents them climbing up the bed."

FOR GREATER ALEXANDRIA

Kenneth W. Ogden Gives The Gazette His Views

Thinks Careful Selection of City Councilmen is Most Important Question Now

Kenneth W. Ogden, partner in the firm of Graham and Ogden, in talking to the Gazette's reporter says that he is in favor of anything that will help to improve our general condition. There are many important things, but one of the most important is the careful selection of our new councilmen. He says:

"First of all, I believe not only in the physical but also in the psychological effect of illumination. therefore, I am heartily in favor of the proposed White Way which is now pending. The total cost of the installation of this White Way from Fairfax street to Patrick street on King street will be something like $12,000 $7,200 of which will be borne by the four public utilities—The C. and P. Telephone Company, Western Union Telegraph Company, Alexandria County Lighting Company and the Washington-Virginia Railway Company—the remaining $4,800 wil be paid by the owners and occupants of King street property on a pro rata basis. All that is asked of City Council is an agreement with the Alexandria County Lighting Company in which the city will agree to pay that company approximately $2,000 annually in addition to that now paid under an existing contract which will not expire until 1936.

If this is accomplished it must be conceded that persons on King street—both property owners and merchants—will be greatly benefited and such benefits will not be restricted to them by any means, as the netire community will then compare favorably with other progressive communities in the country resulting in a general enhancement of present day assets. If this is accomplished, the new lighting system will be accepted by the citizen and the stranger alike as a symbol of progressiveness and optimism, not only attracting the purchase of merchandise but the home seeker as well, thereby producing a gradual

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE Commercial and Political

SATURDAY, JAN. 22, 1814

Extract of a letter from the Secretary of State to John Quincy Adams, Esq., Minister plenipotentiary of the United States at St. Petersburg. Department of State, July 1, 1812: Sir,

"On the 18 ultimo a declaration of war against Great Britain passed Congress; of which, of the President's message, and report of the committee of foreign relations of the House of Representatives leading to it, I have the honor to transmit to you copies.

"You are too well acquainted with the causes which produced this result to require any explanation of them. As it appeared that Great Britain would not revoke her orders in council on the just grounds on which it was claimed but enlarged the conditions on which she proposed her willingness to revoke them, there remained no honorable course for the United States to pursue short of war. On full consideration of all circumstances, this measure wasadopted, and the government resolved to pursue it till its objects are accomplished, with the utmost decision and activity in its power."

COMMUNICATED

The Editor,
Alexandria Gazette,
Alexandria, Va.,

Dear Sir:—

The following editorial appeared in your issue of January 23rd, 1922:

Water Pressure

"Numerous complaints of the lack of adequate water pressure have been received recently at the Gazette office. Inquiry at the water company have apparently failed to satisfactory explanation.

"What is the trouble?"

Please advise this Company of the names and addresses of the "numerous complaints" you refer to of lack of adequate pressure, and they will receive prompt attention and investigation.

The place to file complaints is with this Company and not with the Alexandria Gazette. There is not a single complaint made at the office of this Company that does not receive prompt attention. We have no complaints on file awaiting attention.

Lack of pressure when investigated has generally been due to old stopped up service lines of insufficient size.

It is the duty and obligation of the consumer to remedy such matters and we have in numerous instances gone to considerable trouble and expense to assist our consumers in locating trouble with their house service connections. Please give the same publicity to this as you did to your editorial.

Respectfully,
Alexandria Water Company.

STRENGTH AND ENERGY SEEMED TO LEAVE HER

Philadelphia Woman Would Have to Stop and Rest Several Times While Doing Her Housework.

Health Restored by Taking Tanlac Five Years Ago, Mrs. McLaughlin States She Has Been Feeling Fine Ever Since.

"I firmly believe I owe the good health I've enjoyed for the past five years entirely to the wonderful way Tanlac restored my health and built me up in nineteen sixteen," said Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, 2516 North Lee Street., Philadelphia, Pa.

"At the time I began taking Tanlac I was in such an awful condition I couldn't do a bit of my housework. I seemed to have no strength or energy at all, was very pale and sallow, and often felt so bad I just had to lie down. I had no appetite, nothing tasted good. I lost about thirteen pounds in weight, and my nerves were so unstrung even the wagons passing the house would almost drive me distracted. Many nights I lay wide awake until morning and was completely exhausted. I suffered all the time from constipation, had a mean taste in my mouth every morning, and was just miserable all the time.

"However, it wasn't long after I started on Tanlac until I noticed a great change in my condition. I soon got to where I could eat, and my three hearty meals a day made me feel strong and well all the time. In fact, Tanlac made me feel like a new person, built me up several pounds in weight, and toned up my system so thoroughly I've been in the best of health ever since. I can't praise Tanlac enough, and I just wish it was so everybody could know how wonderful it really is."

Archbishop Curley's Appeal For Near East Relief

Following the lead set by Governor elect E. Lee Trinkle, President Warren G. Harding, the entire Virginia Delegation, and prominent churchmen of every faith in the land, the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, has just issued an appeal in behalf of the Near East Relief and its annual drive for funds, beseeching the people to contribute liberally to this great cause.

Archbishop Curley presides over this diocese and besides being well known in every section of the State, has relatives in Richmond. His appeal follows:

"The generosity of the people of America towards the sufferers of the World War has become proverbial. Everywhere their charity to their stricken fellow man is recognized and extolled.

But now that peace has been made between warring nations there is great danger of imagining that there is no suffering to be relieved; that out of the recent struggle has come peace and plenty to all men.

How sad is the story that comes to us from the East! In Armenia and Southern Russia and Messopotamia thousands of children are dying of hunger, appealing to our charity to save them.

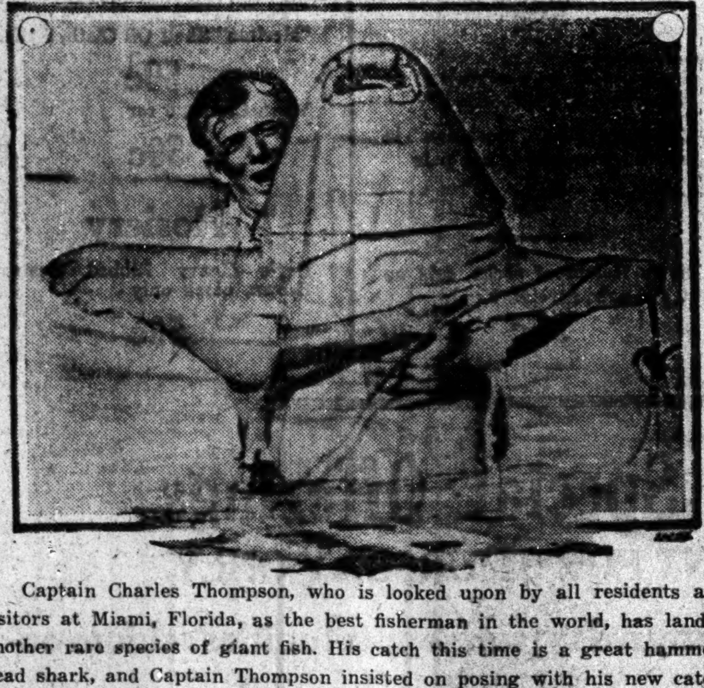
"In their name, there, I beseech the charity of all the people of this great country of ours, assuring all that He who promised a reward to those who would give a cup of water in His name will not b sparing of His Graces and blessings."

(Signed)
MICHAEL. J. CURLEY,
Archbishop of Baltimore.

New Method For Bootlegging

Albert Wheeler, who works at one of the large fish markets in New York, claims the distinction of having discovered a species of fish stuffed with quarts of whisky. He made this startling discovery while sorting a load of cod just received from New England fishing banks. Prohibition agents are investigating this new system of bootlegging

Miami's Best Fisherman Lands a Great Shark



Captain Charles Thompson, who is looked upon by all residents and visitors at Miami, Florida, as the best fisherman in the world, has landed another rare species of giant fish. His catch this time is a great hammerhead shark, and Captain Thompson insisted on posing with his new catch.

RECREATION

Owing to the speed, complexity and worry of modern life among all classes, and to the monotony of work in industry, recreation has become a matter of vital importance for everyone. Some muscular activity, preferably in the open air, is needed by every healthy person, and this exercise, to be effective, must be accompanied by the element of pleasure. Hoisting dumbbells, for instance, purely from conscientious motives is seldom beneficial and is generally soon abandoned.

Recreation, to be ideal, should be as unlike the regular occupation as possible. Going to the theater, for example, is not the best recreation for sedentary workers employed all day in artificially lighted offices, although it might afford the ideal relaxation for people whose daily work keeps them out of doors most of the time and on their feet. Office workers should, if possible, take their recreation out of doors, some form of sport being the best thing for them. Variety of occupation in working hours also affords relaxation and should be arranged for if possible.

Change of scene is also very important in giving the mind and body the opportunity for proper relaxation and recreation. If possible, every person should spend his vacation away from home where new scenes, new acquaintances and a different mode of living will take his mind from the particular problems and worries with which he lives the rest of the year. The value of a fresh point of view as an aid to recreation can handily be overestimated.

The habit of working in the evening at the same task or the same kind of task that occupies you during the day is an exceedingly bad one. You return to your work in the morning jaded and weary and accomplish much less than you would if you had laid asid all thought of your task for a few hours and spent the evening in an entirely different kind of occupation. Must be remembered in urging recreation upon other people that what might afford complete relaxation to one is not real recreation to another. The man who works all day long with figures and accounts would probably find a game of bridge in the evening too much like work, while the man whose work requires him to walk a number of miles a day would probably never find any recreation at all in golf.

In Siam there are boys' schools which meet every day in the year and in which the classes begin at 4 a. m. and continue until 10 p. m., with three brief intervals for refreshments.

FATIGUE

A fatigued person is a poisoned person. Muscular exertion burns up the fuel of the body, as can be seen by the greater heat generated within us during muscular exertion. Waste products resulting from the burning process, accumulate if not removed, and clog the body in some what the same way that ashes and cinders clog a furnace. The fatigued person remains fatigued, consequntly, until the accumulations of waste matter are removed by the normal action of the lungs, skin and kidneys.

Fatigue is caused by both mental and physical work, and when excessive affects the nervous system most disatrously. Of course the body ca nand should stand the strain of occasional extra demands on its strength and endurance but even slight fatigue, if continued and especially if associated with anxiety or worry, has caused many nervous and mental breakdowns.

Work carried beyond the point of normal fatigue requires a proportionately longer time for recovery. For example, if the point of fatigue has been reached by a certain finger muscle after fifteen contractions and a half an hour is required to rest it completely, one might suppose that one would rest it after thirty contractions. This is not so, however; after thirty contractions two hours rest are required, or four times as much rest for twice the amount of work if continued beyond the point of fatigue. Experiments and experience alike show that this is true of other forms of fatigue and factories have found that, other things being equal, their output is greater when operatives work only eight hours a day than when they work longer.

Excessive hours in any kind of work are the poorest economy.

Fatigue is increased in direct proportion not only to muscular and mental exertion but also to the amount of speed, involved in the occupation. The ability to bear fatigue, of course, differs greatly with different people, just as ability to bear other kind of strain varies but everybody, no matter how strong, requires a certain amount of rest. Rest at night and on Sunday and the annual vacation should be enough to keep the average person in good condition, and a chance to rest a little at the lunch hour is also important. This is even more important for children than for adults, and many schools are beginning to arrange a regular rest period when the children are made to lie down for about fifteen minutes. If a person continues to be fatigued even with rest at night and on Sunday and during a vacation, there is probably something wrong with the worker's health, the nature of his work or his adaptation to his particular kind of work.

A sufficent amount of sleep is essential to health, but individual requirements differ widely. Children and young people need more sleep than adults and should be required to go to bed early. The average person requires about eight hours sleep every night, but there are some who do not need so much. Ability to sleep is largely a matter of habit, and if good habits are formed they will be continued. Sleep-producing drugs should never be taken except by a doctor's prescription.

"My Telephone Is My Only Salesman"

THE above statement was made by a Washington business man who two years ago was doing a gross business of $300.00 per month. Today he is doing over 1200 per cent. more business per month than at that time.

All of his business is not done in Washington. He sells large orders to customers in cities in several of the surrounding states—by telephone.

If the telephone can be so successfully used by this man, it will certainly do as much for you.

Consider the speed, certainty and satisfaction in a telephone call. And the rates are reasonable.

The pages in the front of your telephone directory will give complete information about the different classes of calls.

Celebrate Tenth Anniversary

A very delightfull time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Williams in Cameron street on Saturday evening marking the tenth anniversary of their martial bliss.

Relatives and friends of both parties gathered to make the occasion one of the season's prettiest and most enjoyable.

The color scheme of pink and green was most artistically arranged. The dining room presented a beautiful sight. In the background a large bower was formed of ferns and green baskets filled with deep pink roses and tied with pink tulle, the lights shaded in soft colors lending a deep sentiment to the surroundings.

Games, dancing and cards were in order. Miss Pauline Taylor and Miss Mae Cavanaugh gathered in the prizes A delightful supper followed, the favors being kewpies dressed as bride and groom.

Gifts of silver cut glass, linen and aluminum were displayed as many and beautiful. Guests departed at midnight wishing the charming hosts continued happiness.

GREATER ALEXANDRIA

and healthy growth in our city and an increase in the amount of revenue in the city treasury, to say nothing of the effect of dispeling the gloom that so often pervades our main thoroughfare and the consequent apathy of which we are all, more or less, conscious and which we deplore.

"Nobody sees the necessity for additional school buildings and the advantages to be derived from them more than I. It is, indeed, with gratification that we note the willingness of City Council to make provisions for these much needed facilities. It is an accepted fact that the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow and nothing is too good for them.

"The proposed ferry to the Maryland shore and the improvement of the Little River turnpike as far as Fairfax Courthouse and possibly beyond are two of the most important factors to the consummation of which our utmost efforts should be directed. Should our activities in these projects result in the completion of them, a remarkable improvement will be noted in the industrial commercial nad economic life of the entire community and will be enjoyed by all.

"As to the approaching change in the form of city management, all personal feeling should be put aside in an effort to find the five right men to fill the positions of Councilmen. As for me, even though a man may be my bitterest antagonist, should he be of a high moral and mental style not subject to political, personal or party influence, that character of man is the one for whom I shall cast my vote. He must naturally be a loyal Alexandrian with no axes to grind, but with the determination to administer the affairs of his office justly and honorably and without reference to political or party affiliations. He should be of a progressive tendency, but not radically so. He should be willing to gradually change and improve conditions when needed and justified. Unless men of this character are selected we cannot hope for the much needed centralization of authority and the standardization of purchases of city equipment nor for the co-ordination of administrative energies and consequent responsibilities. I feel it the duty of every voter, both male and female, to go to the polls this coming June and his or her vote for the selection of such councilmen and that no one should be delinquent in this duty to himself and to the community. If this plan is accepted we may then rest assured of a brighter, better and bigger future for Alexandria.

"Our, like all other communities has its iconoclasts and cynics. You know the kind I refer to. A certain portion of our population is striving daily to attain as nearly as possible to attack and destroy those aspirations, if not by actual physical exertions then by the baser method of impugning the motives of the contenders for right. Unfortunately the impulse thus created is blindly followed by so many well meaning but misguided persons susceptible to such adverse influences until a reaction invades the soul of the follower, when resentment takes the place of susceptibility, but often too late, for the powers of destruction have completed their work and are standing ready amassed to resist the next onward attack for progressiveness.

"Selfishness, ever existing in the make-up of a human being, is too often in the ascendency and is allowed to determine our conclusions. Such a condition is glaringly manifested often when we hear persons saying that such and such a proposition will only benefit those in a certain section and "I am not receiving any, therefore, I shall oppose it.' Such an attitude may be likened unto a physician suffering from an incurable but not necessarily contagious disease, but because he cannot help himself he refuses to help others and will permit humanity to suffer on its account.

"In the evolution of things it is gratifying to learn that the number of persons so inclined is diminishing and that they shall, in the near future, be in the minority and that instead of pessimism and hindrance, the doctrine of progressiveness, unselfishness, liberality, consciousness of duty to our fellowman and optimism are prevailing and becoming our guiding influences for the creation and realization of a Greater and Better Alexandria."

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear neice, HAZEL LANDON, who left us one year ago, January 25, 1921.

One year has passed since that sad day,
That our dear Hazel was called away,
She was allways loving, patient and kind,
What a beautiful memory she left behind.
Nobody knows our longing,
But few see us weep,
We shed our tears from aching hearts,
When others are fast sleeping.

THE TIME TO TAKE PEPTO-MANGAN

When You Feel a Little "Off" It Will Bring You Back to Health

Some people never need any medicine at all. They are, as the saying goes, 'strong as a bull." They are mighty lucky. Most people need a good tonic once in a while. They take cold, or through overwork or social activity do not get enough sleep; many eat improper food and thus hurt the digestion. It is mighty wise to take Gude's Pepto-Mangan with the meals for a few weeks and build up. One cannot have too much good health. Pepto-Mangan gives you plenty of red blood, and everybody knows that red blood means feeling good and looking good all the time. Sold by druggists in liquid and tablet form. Advertisement.

IN MEMORIAM

LANDON—In sad but loving remembrance of uor dear daughter, HAZEL, who left us one year ago today, January 25, 1921.

Today recalls a memory,
Of a loved one laid to rest,
And those who will remember her,
Are those who loved her best.
The Lord who given has called away,
To his will we must bow,
She is free from pain and suffering,
Not a pain can reach her now.
Oh how we loved you Hazel dear,
No hearth on earth can tell
But God loved you better still,
And called you home to dwell.

To Put on Good Firm Flesh and Round Out Your Face and Figure

Get a FREE $1.00 Package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets Today as Explained Below—Try Them for Ten Days and Watch the Results

Science has at last shown how we sometimes grow weak, thin, and emaciated on an abundance of food (lacking in vitamines) while with a much smaller amount of food, rich in vitamines, we may quickly take on good firm flesh, increase in weight, and make a remarkable gain in strength, energy and endurance, provided your blood contains sufficient quantity of oxygenated organic iron to enable your body to assimilate your food properly.

Without organic iron both food and vitamines are absolutely useless as your body cannot change lifeless inert food matter into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood.

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the iron in your blood from any druggist under the name of "Nuxated Iron."

It has been arranged to give every purchaser of Nuxated Iron, who wishes to put on flesh or increase weight, a large regular $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free. Be sure to take only Nuxated Brand Yeast Vitamine Tablets with Nuxated Iron. Do not be mislead by imitations which often contain drugs.
